

Our “carbon footprint” is the direct effect our actions and lifestyle have on the environment through the production of carbon dioxide emissions. The more we consume, the more emissions we produce, the greater the effect on the environment. Naturally, promotional products also contribute to this impact.

So what can each of us do to limit the damage?

Offset me!

We’re proud to announce the introduction of a “carbon offset price option” for each and every item we sell. Through this extra payment we offset emissions approximately generated during production and distribution of the product. The offsets are sourced from Origin’s Carbon Reduction Scheme™ which provides you with the confidence that the offsets you purchase meet independently verified standards.

There are no new procedures for you to follow; just the knowledge that you’re going further to help the environment. We’d like to encourage everyone to talk to their distributor today about the offset price which applies to any quote from our entire range of quality products.

It’s another example of leading the way; doing what we can to provide us all with a better and more sustainable future.

Carbon Offset Program

The carbon offset contribution is based on a CSIRO, Sydney University Study report called “The Balancing Act”. (TM) Trade mark of Origin Energy Limited
